11. CHASE-LLOYD HOUSE, 22 Maryland Avenue. (Open 10-12 and 2-4). A rare example of a three-story Georgian mansion, this impressive house was started in 1769 by

Samuel Chase, one of Maryland's four signers. He sold the property to Edward Lloyd of Wye House on the Eastern Shore who finished it in 1772. Lloyd's enormous wealth made possible the elegance of the interior. The carved detail is exquisite. Especially noteworthy are a magnificent Palladian window over the landing and finely wrought silver door-knobs. Francis Scott Key and Mary Tayloe Lloyd were married here. An embankment insures privacy in the delightful garden. It is now a Registered Historic Landmark. Owners: Chase Home Board of Trustees, Episcopal Bishop of Maryland, Chairman.
